PRICE TWO PENCE

Basque Children

The Editor has allowed space in order to refer to an article which appeared in your issue of March 1st regarding the Southampton Home for Basque Children, Moorhill.

Whilst I appreciate that the object was to try and get more students who would help educate or amuse the children, I must right away say there are many gross exaggerations in the contribution of Evelyn Walsh and Margery Betts. The Home is maintained by the regular contributions of members of staffs and organisations in Southampton, its affairs are conducted by a Management Committee elected by the contributing sections, and the Home itself is very efficiently run by Miss F. E. Vessey (Matron) and Miss E. Lewis, assisted by Spanish women teachers. The children are very well behaved as can be testified by the many friends who take them out at week-ends on Saturdays and Sundays to their own homes and on excursions. The youngsters are very well in health; their spirits are good, and it is a fact particularly during the winter months they may at times have been somewhat noisy. They have their lessons in the home both morning and afternoon, and in the short evening they do need amusing.

To say that they are "running wild . . . all the day and half the night" is not only untrue but a ridiculous statement to make.

Their life in the Basque country was not "necessarily ugly." The children were brought to this country to save them from possible death, and at any rate from the horrors of modern warfare, and they have been brought to a life here, with good shelter, education, good and sufficient food, and the loving care of Matron and Cook, who have had 10 years' Missionary experience in Spain with children. In addition, quite a number of friends have taken a keen interest in the children, and on most Sundays over half are in the homes of friends, whilst one or two families take children regularly on Wednesdays and Sundays.

As to the accommodation in the Home, save the Schoolroom, the whole of the house was re-decorated, and is well lit, including the hall and schoolroom. As the two last named have been used as playrooms during the Winter months they have suffered to some extent, but we have already planned as soon as possible to have the paintwork re-decorated in dark oak.

The whole of the house is regularly and thoroughly cleaned, and we invite any students from the College to call and view the Home (the whole of it: not simply the hall and schoolroom) on visiting day—Thursday.

The children are well, and what is more very happy indeed; three have returned to their parents in Spain, but they were very sorry to leave their temporary English home, Miss Vessey and Miss Lewis (who have truly acted as their parents for the time being) and other English friends who have been kind to them.

With the light evenings, the children will be able to spend their time, outside school and meal times, in the grounds at play. They would have welcomed more to help amuse them in the dark evenings, and will still welcome any who can do so during the Spring and Summer, so that if any students care to answer the appeal of the Toc H. League of Women Helpers we shall be very pleased.

Let me say in conclusion that although the regular weekly and monthly contributions of the sections have been well maintained, further contributions or single donations will be gladly received, and will enable us to do more, if possible, for the children.

Editorial.

It is the Englishman's prerogative to talk about the weather when there is nothing else of import to discuss, and we must, therefore, in accordance with tradition observe that Southampton has in the past week been enjoying a real Riviera climate, there only being necessary a few gambling tables and roulette wheels in the Common Rooms to perfect the illusion of spending that well-earned holiday at Cannes after a term of arduous toil.

It is not our normal inclination to indulge in a panegyric of the English weather, but having racked our brains in vain for some hours we have reluctantly to record that we can discover no new grievance to air, no defect in the conduct of College affairs to denounce, no "racket" to expose ruthlessly in our columns. Perhaps our mind has been dragged by the enervating warmth of the anti-cyclone stationed over Britain but we have to confess to our weakness and join in acclaiming that "All is well with the world"—at least, "pro tem."

The immediate future has its appeal too; this is the last editorial we shall have to write this term, and next week the Inter-Varsity Debate and Union Ball should make a fitting climax to a brilliant College "Social Season."

There is perhaps just one drawback to this summer weather—that it tends to remind certain unfortunate people only too forcibly of the approach of the "Finals season." But the Easter Vac. is ahead and we can prescribe plenty of hard work as the best medicine for alleviating these disturbing qualms.

NOTICE.

The next issue of Wessex News will be on Tuesday, May 3rd. There will be five issues in the Summer Term, published fortnightly, at the same rates—1d. to students; 2d. to others.

The Editor and Business Manager wish to thank all who have assisted in the publication and distribution of "Wessex News" this term.

Correspondence

To the Editor of Wessex News.

Dear Sir,

We cordially welcome the suggestion contained in the article about the Basque children in your last issue, that some organised effort to give systematic teaching to these children should be made by the College. We think, however, that the suggestion is somewhat ill-timed, coming as it does less than 3 weeks before the end of the Spring Term. We could not do much that would be worth while before the Summer Term. If, in the meantime, your contributors will collect suggestions, offers of help, etc., with a view to doing something next term, we shall be very willing to co-operate with them.

Yours truly,

R. B. LABOULE,
M. Y. HALEUQUE.To the Editor Wessex News.

Dear Sir,

We learn with considerable regret that an unfortunate misinterpretation has been placed upon our appeal in last week's issue of Wessex News for help for the Basque children at Moor Hill.

We had not the least intention of criticising the admirable work done by the Warden and Staff of Moor Hill. We were appealing very strongly to students to give generously of the time and energy, that this work may be even more successful.

Such an appeal will not, we assure, be disregarded. We have already received various offers of help and co-operation and we hope to call a meeting, of all those who would like to help, either in giving lessons or in organising games in the evening.

We are,

Yours sincerely,
EVELYN WALSH,
MARGERY BETTS.

The Sorcerer

As the Sorcerer, Nash, who is a new-comer to the Society, was a most resourceful and cheerful magician, blending neatly the supernatural with the business. Aline was charmingly played by M. Mackenzie, whose consistently good acting was always a support to the others. Miss Read, as Lady Sangaree, showed a great advance on her performance last year. As Dr. Daly, Fall achieved a real success, acting in the accepted Savoy tradition, to the appreciation of the audience. Another newcomer to public singing, Botterill made a most acceptable Sir Marmaduke. Constance (M. Richardson) acted pleasantly and looked charming, but needs more control over her voice before she can take a more exacting part.

Miss D. Read is to be congratulated on her work as Producer. She kept a nice balance between her own duties as player and producer and between the actions of the various members of the company.

BRITISH YOUTH PEACE MOVEMENT.(South England Regional Conference.)

A very important Youth Assembly and Conference will be held on the week-end of April 23rd and 24th, just preceding the beginning of term. The Assembly will take the form of a Public Rally on the Saturday evening, at which speakers are hoped to include Mr. Duncan Jones, National Chairman of the B.Y.P.A., a prominent member of the S.C.M. and other representatives of affiliated organisations. The two Conference Sessions on Sunday will discuss "Peace and Social Justice," and the "Organisation of British Youth for the defence of Peace and Justice."

The Conference arrangements are in the hands of a joint Committee representing the University College Peace Council and the town branch of the B.Y.P.A. It is earnestly hoped that the University will give the lead that can be expected of it in such matters, and that the various College Societies will appoint delegates and organise the greatest possible support for this very important Youth Assembly.

Union Ball

As an antidote to terminals, and as a grand end-of-term treat, for Thursday, March 17th, we strongly recommend—dancing from 8 p.m. to 2 a.m. in the attractive hall of Connaught (good floor!) to the rhythm of "The Astorians," an excellent combination under the direction of Ray Glover (good band!), running buffet from 9.30—12 (good supper!); ices and arm-chairs in two lounges (good sitting-out!); a Carbaret at midnight (good fun!) and a licensed Bar to be open until 2 a.m. (good luck!).

And this can be yours for three-and-sixpence!

So come along with all your friends to make this year's Union Ball the best show of the year.

G. W.

Chess Club

In the recent Hants. League match the "A" Team overwhelmingly defeated Taunton's School for the third time during this season. The result was 4-0 games, with one for adjudication. Superior technique in the openings by the College players was a feature of the match. The effects of the tea interval seemed to be rather disastrous when the Club President gave away two pieces in quick succession. He recovered, however, and proceeded to win in ten moves.

Both teams rested from the So'ton League matches last week.

This week's fixture:

Wed.—"B" v. Itchen S. School.
(Home).

The Road to Life

"The Road to Life" being presented this week by the Socialist Society is a Soviet Sound Film of world-wide fame, giving an account of the reformation and preparation for a new life of young waifs and criminals produced by the Civil War in Russia. It illustrates, as is said in last week's "Passing Show," the early history of the great reformatory institute at Bolshevo. The film is rather of Sociological interest than propaganda, and it is one of the best the Soviet Union has yet produced.

ATHLETIC UNION

"CROSS COUNTRY."

Cross Country has the supreme advantage over the majority of other sports in that a minimum of external impediments is necessary for participation in the game; further, anyone who finds it impossible to gain a place in the first eleven of any other club can usually train enough to make himself tolerably good at this most enjoyable recreation; the only qualification insisted upon is a superabundance of keenness and a willingness to exhaust oneself at least twice a week. The signature tune in the minds of every member of the Club is, "It is the cause, it is the cause, my soul."

With the possible exception of rowing, cross country running is the most exhaustive winter sport I know; for 35-40 minutes continuously the body is being exercised at the greatest possible pressure; hence anyone who observes closely enough is sure to be impressed by the size and strength of the calf and thigh muscle country seriously. Racing with the speed of the wind along hard roads, one is suddenly confronted with a ditch ten or twenty feet wide; then on the farther side perhaps a steep hill to climb, and beyond that a ploughed field; a copse or two and a stretch of marshland; a good cross country course is distinguished by its infinite variety, which custom can never stale.

The average length may be anything from 5 to 7 miles.

Cross Country running is an excellent training for life, since continual encounters with sundry urchins of a not too complimentary turn of mind are admirable prescriptions for making one impervious to the gibes of others.

The younger inhabitants of the less reputable suburbs of London, for instance, have perfected extempore criticism to a fine art. If all one's energies and breath were not concentrated on getting round the course with as great a degree of celerity as possible, one could spend a few very instructive minutes in conducting an altercation on unorthodox sophistical bases with these gentlemen.

Many misinformed people are of the opinion that Cross Country running is an individual sport. Undoubtedly Cross Country demands a less united combination than, for example, rowing, and a team of brilliant individualists would probably obtain results which were comparatively better than a rugby or soccer team which played as a set of individuals; yet team-packing commands a very important place in every race; often a team which has trained to pack well will defeat a team which may be individually stronger, but which cannot pack so well; team packing has to be learnt, and no small amount of experience is necessary before the team can give of its best, however brilliant its individuals dual runners may be. Perhaps no sport affords so much pleasure recollected in tranquillity as does Cross Country Running.

L. H. MOORE,

Captain of Cross Country.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT.

The Tennis Club has decided to hold a tournament as usual during the Summer Term and it is hoped that as many as possible will take part. It has been suggested the following should be added to the existing tournament rules—"No two regular playing members of the first and second teams shall play together in the men's and women's doubles and in the case of the mixed club no two first team players shall play together." The most important advantages of the new rule are that it will result in a general levelling of the handicaps and make it impossible for team members to win all the prizes. It is hoped that the Staff will support the tournament as keenly as in the past but that they will use discretion in the choice of partners (1) in keeping with the spirit of the above rule. A representative from each Hall will be elected this week for the Tournament Committee. Freshers' Trials will take place on the first Wednesday of next term.

B. A. WAREHAM.

RUGGER.

Stoneham 21. Connaught 3. Stoneham waged their annual battle against Connaught on Saturday and for the third year in succession proved victorious. Connaught attacked strongly for the first fifteen minutes and came very near to scoring, but after half an hour's play Stoneham celebrated the arrival of Williams from the River by opening their score, when Woolley broke through. Roberts converted.

In the second half O'Connor with a leap and a dive went over from the line-out. The neat try was the result of a good passing movement between Noble and Holmes, when the latter scored. A few minutes later a clearance by Beech was gathered by Cuell; Roberts converted. Cuell scored another try beneath the posts; Ditto. One minute from time Beech gathered the ball and walked through the Stoneham defence. Huyshe did not convert.

It was a good, clean game and Connaught put up a hard fight. Lane and Mossman were outstanding for Connaught, and Woolley, Francis and O'Connor for Stoneham. Our sympathy is extended to Thompson, the Stoneham full-back, who received a nasty rib injury, which necessitated his being carried off.

HINTS TO SOCCER PLAYERS WHO TRY TO PLAY RUGGER.

1. You must not hold an opponent's hand when he has not got the ball. He is quite liable to put his arm round your neck and smack your head.

2. It's no good saying at the beginning of the game that you don't know the rules, and then trying to act as referee throughout the game; your career is liable to be brought to an untimely end.

INTER-HALL SOCCER FINAL.

Russell (holders) 3 Stoneham 1. The constitution of the team seemed to indicate that this would be a battle between Russell defence v Stoneham, and this was so with full honours going to the former. The first half saw Stoneham attacking the whole time with Hill playing a very clever game but Russell defence was equal to all demands made upon it. This was due mainly to fine work by G. White v. Weight. Then two breakaways late in the first half saw W. S. White score with two fine shots, the first of which seemed to be from an offside position. The second half was a repetition of the first, Downer scoring a good goal. After this Stoneham put all they knew into attack but their forwards held the ball too long, thus allowing the Russell backs and halves to protect their goalkeeper which they did well. Finally Cuell netted. Russell have a brilliant defence, notably White to thank for victory and Stoneham an inept set of forwards to thank for defeat. Both sides wish to thank Mr. Grant for so ably carrying out the arduous task of refereeing this match.

NETBALL.

U.C.S. 8. U.L.A.U. 38.

College 1st VII were extremely unlucky in having to meet in the W.I.V.A.B. Netball Semi-Finals at Reading a team representative of the University of London Athletic Union and therefore containing the pick of players from at least five College Netball Clubs.

Not surprisingly, U.C.S. were completely outclassed throughout the game. Several goals, which would have strengthened the confidence of the side, were missed in the opening minutes of play, while U.L.A.U.'s score increased at an alarming pace. Our opponents gave us a splendid exhibition of skilful, polished netball, with excellent individual play. It is to be deplored that the good material of our team should be so wasted through lack of coaching and I fear, training.

College took the field, understandably disheartened, and therefore failed to reproduce collectively the fighting spirit they had previously shown, so that U.L.A.U. went well away to victory.

The two outstanding performances of our team came from Olive and Eira, who fought pluckily every inch of the way. We tender our congratulations and thanks to Eira for rising from a sick-bed to give such able support to her team.

Joan, unfortunately not playing in the position she won in the W.I.V.A.B. team, did not lose any of her usual quickness, but it was noticeable that our field players, as contrasted to the athletic-looking U.L.A.U. team, seemed lacking in the staying-positions so necessary for such positions.

It cannot be wondered at that College went down before such experienced and well-trained players! Best of luck to U.L.A.U. and congratulations to U.C.S. 1st VII for having reached at least the Semi-Final!

Wed. U.C.S. 17. Queen's 7.

WOMEN'S HOCKEY

U.C.S. 4. Reading 4.

In this match the team maintained the improvement in play which it has shown in the last few matches and as a result the game was a very close one. Although 2-0 up shortly after the beginning of play, the score stood 3-4 in Reading's favour within five minutes of time. After a series of persistent attacks on the Reading goal attended with some genuine bad luck College managed to equalise.

The game proved undoubtedly one of the most enjoyable and hardest games of the season.

The Sports Editor wishes to thank Captains who have kindly contributed articles on their respective games for the Sports page this term.

The Hants. Inter-Collegiate Cross Country Championship will be run from Swaythling to-morrow. A considerable number of markers are required to ensure that the Course is adequately marked. We appeal to enthusiasts to offer their services for an hour so that we may at least make a good job of the marking. Volunteers are asked to see the Secretary, H. F. Pearce, as soon as possible.

Summary of important business of A.U. Committee meeting on Saturday, March 5th.

1. Colours.

(a) Decided that some form of Colour award should not be made to every regular member of the First team.

(b) Half-Colours to be abolished.

(c) The number of games played to entitle a player to be called a regular playing member of the 1st team to be left to the discretion of the Club officials.

(d) The A.U. Committee to retain its powers of criticism and adjustment of awards.

(e) The standard of the Colour to be determined on the bases of: Proficiency.

Service.

Sportsmanship.

(f) Club officials to report to A.U. Committee on their award of scarves.

2.—

(a) Application of Fencing Club for authority to award Colours this session granted.

(b) Application of Bowing Club to award Colours this session deferred until next term.

REPORT OF INVESTIGATION INTO THE LECTURE SYSTEM

In the first place it is clear that a great deal of careful thought has been put into answering these questionnaires. Students have frequently argued their case with unsuspected vigour. In general, there appears fairly wide dissatisfaction with the present lecture system, students object to what is fairly frequently largely a re-hash of the standard textbooks. It is of course true that to some extent this is necessary when there are insufficient books to go round, but much could be done by allowing students to use a printed outline as a guide for private study where this is not already the case. There is also wide support for freer discussion within lectures and for more tutorials and seminars, although it was pointed out that the latter can be successful only if there is adequate support from the student. On the question of compulsion there was considerable division of opinion, a section of the Arts' faculty representing the one extreme that this amounted to an insult to both students and staff, a section of the engineers the other, that it would encourage slackness.

Criticism was also levelled at examination syllabuses and to some extent, the courses followed. It was recognised that one of the main troubles is that many students enter the universities inadequately equipped and that a great deal could be done if in the schools, students were made more aware of conditions, prospects, etc., of different occupations which might give more significance to their university studies.

To consider the various departments, engineers appeared to feel the want of more correlation between the theoretical and practical aspects of their work, between lecture and laboratory, and between university and workshop. The syllabus might well be clarified. The Arts' Faculty generally complained of the academic nature of their syllabus and argued for more guidance and less compulsion in their studies. This complaint about the syllabus is echoed in the Economics' Faculty where the feeling exists that more applied studies would be valuable. In the education department, students would like more time for tutorials particularly in the revision term. Many of them feel that there is a danger that their training might become too theoretical while in practice the contact system appears to meet with objections.

In conclusion may we say that this merely represents an attempt to give a brief account of what from the questionnaires appears to be the general feeling. In so short a span some distortion is inevitable.

D. R. PEARCE,
Sec. U.C.S. Sub. Committee on N.U.S. Congress.

REPORT OF N.U.S. BIRMINGHAM CONFERENCE

This arose as a development out of the last Congress held at Southampton and its purpose was to give some more or less clear terms of reference to a sub-committee of N.U.S. which it was to set up. Discussion was divided into three sections.

1. Grants and the method of selection to training colleges.
2. Curricula and teaching methods.

3. Methods of appointment to teaching posts.

The conference opened with an address from Sir Charles Grant Robertson who put forward the idea of lowering grants in the first 3 years of the student at the university, not imposing the teaching pledge until the fourth year, when grants increased possibly up to £150 would be made. In discussion it was pointed out that to maintain the supply of students, grants would have to be kept up during the first three years and that in any case grants would be necessary to secure adequate graduates for non-teaching posts. At several points in the conference an ominous note was sounded, which did not find support among students, that the question of reducing numbers might arise. That a problem exists is shown by the large percentage of graduates trained for secondary who secure elementary posts (70-80 per cent.)

One of the University Parliamentary representatives, Miss Eleanor Rathbone, made a fighting speech in favour of education in the principles of democracy. If this is to survive the present period of general crisis, she argued, members of the community must be aware of the problems we face to-day and this was possible without any introduction of party propaganda into the schools.

Out of the general discussion which took place the job of the committee was formulated to investigate:

1. The general position with regard to grants.
2. The possibility of substituting seminar and discussion periods for lectures.
3. The possibility of closer contact between schools and training departments.

4. The methods of training for citizenship.

5. The complaints of overcrowding of curricula.

6. The alternatives to the teaching examination, including a trial year at teaching under supervision and with pay.

7. How to avoid neglect of Union affairs by fourth year people.

It was agreed that contact also should be sought with two-year training colleges, while objection was raised to the provision of jobs through private agencies.

D. R. PEARCE.

Brevities

Our Special Correspondent reports that the President-Elect was so overcome by a sense of responsibility that he threw a fainting fit during dinner on Thursday, and in his subsequent convulsions managed to find his head and feet in the custody of strong hands. He apologised to the Warden afterwards for his weakness.

We sympathise, and would recommend Instant Postum.

We understand that the Warden of South Stoneham prematurely congratulated the Chairman of Stoneham on his recent engagement.

"The ideal lecture is when the notes of the lecturer become the notes of the student without passing through the mind of either."

Wessex

The Editor of Wessex, the Annual College magazine, will be glad to consider contributions (articles, stories or poems) for the 1938 number. They should reach Professor Pinto not later than the end of this term. Illustrations (drawings, photographs, etc.) should be sent to the Art Editor, Professor H. W. Lawton. Wessex, 1938, will be the Tenth Anniversary Number, and the Editor hopes to include in it some contributions from Students of the College.
